Ford Taunus 2300 GXL

BROWN METALLIC · VINYL ROOF

SWISS CAR · 1972

Cologne, with an American accent.

The 2300 GXL was the most expensive Taunus of its day. American influence shows in the nose, the gauges and the trim.

A Swiss car with documented history: a father and son, a dealer, then its last owner. Stamped service book.

1972

THE DETAILS

The famous Knudsen nose.

Twin headlamps and the pointed grille of the GXL.

A design brought to Cologne from Detroit.

TAUNUS

THE PRESENCE

Brown metallic.

The rare top-of-the-range GXL.

2.3-LITRE · 107 HP

THE INTERIOR

Brown interior.

Auxiliary gauges, the GXL steering wheel and period trim recall its American cousins.

Warm brown throughout.

AUXILIARY GAUGES

Paperwork back to 1972.

We offer this Swiss Taunus 2300 GXL from May 1972 in the rare GXL trim, the most expensive Taunus of its day. Its history is documented: a father and son, a dealer, then its last owner. All books remain, with the stamped service book, the original insurance certificate and the 1972 registration. After years of slumber in storage, it was carefully repainted and given a new vinyl roof. One of the finest Knudsen Taunus in Switzerland.
